BACKGROUND

After careers in advertising and management consulting, I started Crystalline to work with thoughtful, engaged people who are interested in productivity, effectiveness, and balance, translating into performance and results.

I was at a point in my own life where balance was an important element for me, and I found so many people who were interested in the same arena. People who are already highly capable and competent in their lives - often risk-takers themselves - who are interested in creating both balance and sustainable performance. I work with individuals and entrepreneurs who are interested in growth, expanded capability, and results, while also maintaining our human side.

My experience with EO has been great, both in coaching a member of EO and an EO Forum. I look forward to being of service.

Testimonial

Christine, You surpassed my expectations! I am delighted how well today went and how excellent you were leading us through the day. You ensured we were in good hands. You created a safe place for each of us to express, share and be vulnerable with each other. You truly cared. It showed. So much was covered, so many ah-ha moments, the outcomes achieved. Thank you so much for a great job today. I'm thrilled to work with you and have you help us achieve our goals.
