Underscore highly recommends Paulie's program both at the personal and organizational levels. Her carefully crafted, customized training helped our team discover and magnify the essence of our culture. We feel this gives us a competitive advantage with retaining talent against companies in our industry who are much larger. Paulie is truly amazing and every team member has commented on the value they have received. We can see the increase in confidence and productivity after only a short time.

Paulie is a great public speaking coach, she has helped me get ready for my MojoNation event last year. Right from our first call she was able to educate me on tactics to transfer any nervousness to excitement and she helped me to be able to teach that to our team. She is great at getting companies to create unity and purpose. Every time she comes to work with our team she has incredible insights that motivate and inspire our team to take their self confidence and performance to the next level.
